Jewell & Associates, a Deltek Premier Partner, Successfully Launches The Executive Circle with Kevin Parker, Deltek CEO as Keynote Speaker

Vienna, Virginia (PRWEB) September 12, 2008 – Jewell & Associates, a Deltek Premier Partner, successfully launched The Executive Circle, an exclusive group for project-based Professional Service firm leaders in architecture, engineering, management consulting, IT consulting, communications and government contracting earlier this week. V2 Systems co-sponsored this inaugural event.

Kevin Parker, Deltek CEO spoke to a large group of executives primarily from the Washington, DC metro area. A few executives even traveled from New Jersey and Pennsylvania to join The Executive Circle. Once Mr. Parker concluded his keynote speech, June Jewell, President of Jewell & Associates and Guy Hinkler of V2 Systems spoke and a dynamic Q & A session followed. The overall theme for the event was “Growing Profitably in a Competitive Market.”

The Executive Circle will meet throughout the year for networking, best practice discussions, and executive level presentations from industry experts. Executives at project-based professional services firms are encouraged to join this elite group and help shape its direction. Membership in this group is limited to Principal business owners, CEO's, CFO's, COO's, and VP's.

June Jewell, CPA, President of Jewell and Associates, was very pleased with the success of the launch of The Executive Circle. “It was great to have a room of like-minded executives from project-based professional service firms together to network and leave with ideas that can improve their business. As we plan for our next event, I am focused on providing content which will help this group improve their businesses and maximize profits,” says Jewell. “We will continue to invite industry experts to speak to the group, with my goal being to help businesses grow and maintain profitability during challenging economic times.”
